

I would strongly disagree with Airl completely going off the air. This is a family radio station, that provides entertainment and news in line with my moral values and choices I have made for my life. I don't enjoy being stuck in traffic and listening to rap, country, rock, or alternative music laden with lyrics about sex, drugs, violence, cheating on your spouse, etc, etc. their public service announcement are great for keeping the community informed of upcoming events, and encouraging others to get involved. I have been to a couple of their corporate sponsored events and had more fun, than attending a Z100 bash. I feel by Airl and kLuv going off the air it is limiting MY CHOICE of entertainment, and choice of music.
